MONTREAL, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Airpower is making Russia one of Canada's nearest neighbors. Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night, and "as we become neighbors we desire more than ever to become also the most helpful of friends."

Mr. King introduced Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the United States president, who spoke at a meeting in support of the Aid-to-Russia campaign.

In the new world which airpower is forging, Russia was becoming Canada's nearest neighbor, according to the United States, the Prime Minister said. Russia was just over Canada's northern horizon beyond the pole.

ARTIC BARRIER GONE

"The Arctic was no longer an impenetrable barrier between us, now we are coming to join us closer together."

Mr. King read a letter addressed to himself by the Governor General, welcoming Mrs. Roosevelt to Canada.

"Will you kindly welcome Mrs. Roosevelt on our behalf and assure her that the doors of our homes are always open to her and the President," wrote Lord Althorp.

He hoped that in the distant future they will give us the pleasure and honor of being together.

Mr. King said Mrs. Roosevelt's visit reminded Canada of the White House at Washington and "the two good friends who, at all times, Canada has had in the persons of the President and yourself."

"... We all remember how, in the dark days of 1940, Mrs. Roosevelt, not less than the president, courageously showed your way out of the darkness and into the light of the British people, and of all the peoples of the British Commonwealth. No one will need to be reminded of how, since the entry of the United States into the war, you have further cemented the friendship between Britain and America by your travels, your actions, your writings and your speeches."

Mrs. Roosevelt's interest in the armed services was that of a mother, all of whom were in the active service.

Mr. King said the Russian people were passing through as terrible an ordeal as any people had ever known, and he called on the aid of the Allies.

ALLIES HEARTENED

"All the United Nations will be heartened when they are reminded anew tomorrow morning that the aid and the United States are continuing to aid the civil populations of the Soviet Union, not less than its armed forces," he continued, referring to the Aid-To-Russia campaign.

The campaign was a nation-wide tribute by the peoples themselves to the support given the campaign by Canadian churches, the prime minister said.

"Their leaders have unitedly extended their patronage to its appeal. The campaign is one of many manifestations of the unity of the spirit and purpose of the whole Canadian people."

"In this great war, we of the United Nations are all dependent on the aid of the other. We need the help of Russia, and Russia needs our help."

To help Russia maintain her morale, the Allied governments had the duty of seeing her industrial production was supplemented by their factories and workshops. And we are proud that we have been able to make the contribution we have."

NEED OTHER SUPPLIES

But in addition to military supplies, Russian people are in the greatest need of foodstuffs, clothing, and other necessities.

"The story of their sufferings is but partly told in the staggering figures of Russia's need on the field of battle."

"To begin to understand the situation at all, we need to think of the thousands upon thousands of families—old men, women, young men and little children—driven from their burning homes by barbaric invaders, who have killed, or are seeking to kill the menfolk to whom they look for sustenance and support."

"We need to think of a people scantily clothed, severely starved, as so to find, with nothing but wood for fuel, fighting famine and disease, as well as the most ruthless enemy, and all this in the midst of weather much colder than most of us in Canada have ever been called upon to face."

U.S. Opens Drive

On "Meat Racket"

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—(AP)—The office of price administration launched a nation-wide campaign yesterday against what it called a black market in meat.

Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard said meat would be rationed in the United States but no date has been set.

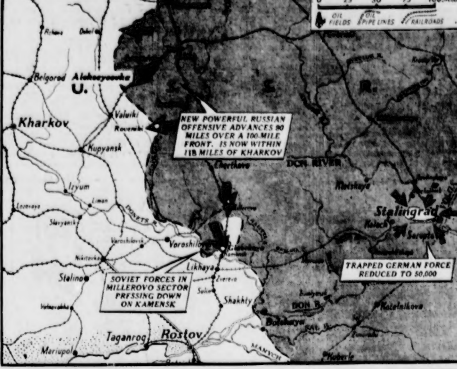

Officials said that some places livestock was being slaughtered surreptitiously in out-of-the-way, unimproved slaughter.

A typical report, this spokesman added, was of "meat being sold to farmers and buying cattle at higher than market price, taking the cattle to local slaughter houses for eviscerating, and peddling the meat at exorbitant prices."

G.P.A. regional attorneys met in Cleveland to set up a program against illegal meat sales. Criminal actions are under way in several districts.

An area of nearly 250,000 acres is covered by the Peasey range real field.

people; and according to propaganda ministry and the Gestapo, playing into the hands of enemy propagandists. The leaflets, which every foreign correspondent in Berlin received, were all based on the understanding that the campaign was undertaken without authorization from Hitler, which was unbelievable, and requested that he be discarded as an irresponsible act of a few leaders whose action could not be properly supervised by Germany's real leaders.

As the war progressed, the officers at the front, the leaflets were widely believed, have emanated from circles of the military command.

HAD FINGERS RAPPED

Whether or not this is true, Goebbels apparently had his fingers rapped by someone for propaganda, in connection with the Jewish campaign, dropped after that to the purely explanatory category. The Kauffman pamphlet was issued as a partial explanation of the new anti-Jewish campaign. It was issued a few weeks, but after the Dietrich affair dropped to an average of one copy per day per block.

The last and hardest blow to their own anti-Jewish propaganda was evidently delivered by the Nazis themselves. They aimed it directly at the Jewish people, who they enjoyed perhaps more intensely than any other group in Germany—the Arianized, the film studios, where a few hard working, energetic actors had been working, and the Jewish actress had been waging a long and bitter struggle to establish herself against the shakiness of propaganda for years.

The victim, Joachim Goebbels, a son of German Frederick March, was a born picture-maker, and made his way to fame through the will of the propaganda ministry, which deprived him of all publicity in film magazines and newspapers. The reason the hands of a young actor was disliked by the authorities was that he was married, to a full-blooded Jewess, and repeatedly refused suggestions from the Nazis to divorce his wife and enjoy a smoother rise to fame.

As the war progressed, Goebbels' popularity grew in Germany. He was a man who had a knack of getting good roles in strictly non-propaganda films, which made him all the more popular. With Paula Westphal, he made the first film in the first year of the war, "Ein Leben Lang."

The Goebbels first won fame in countries outside the German sphere of influence in which the film was exported. With Brigitte Borne he made the first good film, "Das Mädchen von Fano," then played the role of Hans Christian Andersen in "The Tenth Muse," which made him perhaps the most popular actor in Germany. When the anti-Jewish campaign was begun, Goebbels' popularity was at its height. He was becoming a German hero, and he must have been a hero to his people, for he was so popular that he was even invited to the front, and the half-Jewish child she had borne him, she was informed that, regardless of his decision, he could no longer live with his political family. The Gestapo gave his wife and child one day to pack and join the Jewish exodus to the East. Goebbels was not permitted to go with them.

On the appointed evening, the Gestapo invited the Goebbels family to the party at the Reich Chancellery. They found the family there waiting, but it was dead. Ten minutes before they came, Goebbels had killed his wife and himself. The story spread over Berlin like wildfire, and it was said that there was nearly a revolt in the film studios. German women who, in legions of millions had cried their eyes dry at Goebbels playing a war-criminal in "Ein Leben Lang," were horrified. Dr. Goebbels and their Hitler had underestimated the fiber of their film-hero, if they had understood the magnitude of his popularity. People said, in one of those little quips that circulate faster than newspapers, Goebbels killed himself, but he was not only committed suicide that day; the other was Goebbels.

Canadian in U.S. Fined $500 For Claim of Citizen

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—(AP)—Arthur Linkletter, San Francisco and San Diego radio announcer, was fined $500 by federal judge Michael J. Roche yesterday for making a false claim to citizenship.

Linkletter paid the fine immediately and was released. The announcer pleaded guilty to having declared himself a citizen on passes to radio shows as asserted he was born in Moose Jaw, Sask., and came to the United States from Canada when he was four years old.

"I can't understand how you could allow yourself to become so careless regarding the law, committed the justifiable mistake."

"Your honor," it was a mistake. There was no law. I had never done it, answered Linkletter.

No Treasury Loss On Rum Tax Plan

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Headquarters of New York, according to the "Rum Plan" of income tax payments on current income, told a Canadian Club luncheon here yesterday that adoption of his proposal would not interfere with the flow of money to the treasury.

Loss of the revenues still due on the previous years' incomes would not be an immediate problem. They are now being spread over the lifetime of the taxpayers in the form of a new immediate adoption of the plan.

Mr. Hunt's plan, in brief, as presented for application to United States income tax collections, would be to cancel taxes still due on 1940-41 income and start as from Jan. 1, 1943, to collect these taxes on a pay-as-you-go system.

Collection of 90 per cent of income tax at the source in weekly or monthly instalments, which began in Canada last September, in respect of most wage and salary earners, was not adopted in the United States.

The Bulletin's SPORTS HOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

It is quite evident the committee in charge of the Castiloux-Lust fight set for the Arena here on Saturday, Jan. 30, has been using every effort to secure high class talent for the preliminaries.

In other words in addition to bringing to Edmonton the Canadian lightweight titleholder new to the air there and giving him against the best the arena can produce, the members of the committee insist on getting the better by supplementing what is even in itself an extremely attractive proposition.

The inclusion of Jimmy Lindsay due to arrive at the "Ma" Dean tomorrow and whose record in and out of Vancouver for the past three years speaks for itself just adds that much more.

And don't forget for that the fighter who will appear on the card does not lack in the proceeds of which are to go to the benevolent funds of both army and air force.

BONSPIEL GOES AHEAD

BASKETBALL also fell a victim to the current cold and last night, the regular Tuesday double-header in the Men's League began over to Feb. 4. The I.A.C. junior hockey game with R.C.A.F. failed for tonight, but was called off, making the fourth postponement for that circuit in eight days.

But the women's bonspiel goes merrily along right on schedule, the so-called "sex evs."

League's Oldest Players

Paul Waner, John Cooney Released by Boston Braves

BOSTON, Jan. 20. (AP)—Boston Braves Tuesday unconditionally released two of the National League's oldest players, outfielders John Cooney, who will be 42 in March, and the 40-in-April Paul (Big Poison) Waner.

President Bob Quinn said Cooney rejected his offer to sign him in a manager's office with a double-A club because he is certain he could make another major league connection.

Both Cooney and Waner are residents of Saratoga, Fla., in the offseason and last winter.

Both players were signed as free agents by the Braves in 1940. National League clubs had disagreed as to whether to release Cooney, who broke in with the Braves in 1927 as a second pitcher.

Waner, one of baseball's greatest hitters, along with his brother Lynn, came to the Braves in 1940 after being shipped to Brooklyn by Pittsburgh Pirates.

Cooney, still a dependable batter when he reached 40, was one of the most versatile players in the majors. When the Braves cut him, he was 37.

Lose Two Straight

Air Force Still Leading Winnipeg Senior Pucksters

WINNIPEG, Jan. 20. (CP)—It took a month, but Winnipeg's Air Force, under the guidance of Joe Mathewson, and Harry Nell's H.M.C.S. Chippewa finally proved that the R.C.A.F. Bombers hockey team was not unbeatable.

Bombers, after winning five straight in the Winnipeg Senior League and taking away two senior clubs in exhibition matches, were handed a 6-2 defeat by the army and were downed 7-4 in the second game.

Both lines were aided during the first half by the fact that the Air Force was leading 10-0 when the game was tied 10-10.

Fours Reached in Grand Challenge and Visitors

Share Honors Main Event

ONLY three of the seven unbeaten rinks at the start of the second day of the northern Alberta women's bonspiel managed to survive yesterday's games and these four were reached in both Grand Challenge and Cooper (Visitors) events and Mrs. F. A. Mercer's Royal rink was first to enter the Hudson's Bay jewelry store.

Mrs. A. Christensen, of the Royal, Mrs. C. E. Blakeney, of Sedgewick, and Mrs. Cottrill, of the Granite, all have won four straight games and these along with Mrs. C. Cameron, Alberta Ave., who has three wins as against one loss, remain in the Challenge. Four different curling clubs accordingly share the honors in the premier event of the night.

1942 Alberta Milk Production New Record

Dairy Produce Totals $31,770,000 With All Branches Showing Gains

Alberta milk production reached a new high level in 1942, department of agriculture officials announced Wednesday. Total amount of milk produced in the province during the year was 1,799,858,500 pounds.

War Vet Dies

New records were also attained in the manufactured products of the dairy, cheese, cream, ice cream, skim and buttermilk milk. The total value of all dairy products was $31,770,000, an increase of $4,000,000 over 1941. In only one previous year, 1919, were total values higher, and at that time, exceptionally high prices were responsible.

Department officials paid high compliment to the dairy industry, which achieved these new records despite wartime changes and restrictions. Acute shortages of labor on farms and in factories, lack of new equipment, and lack of shipping cars were chief obstacles during the year.

34 CREAMERIES

There were 34 creameries in operation in 1942, the same number as in the previous year. Total production of creamery butter was 29,986,400 pounds, an increase of 10 per cent over 1941.

Two more cheese factories were in operation, bringing the total number up to 26, with a combined output of 3,300,345 pounds. This amount also set a new record for the province.

Prices for dairy products and returns to the producer both exceeded 1941. In addition, the federal government subsidies were paid for almost half the year.

Maj. Mason, who had a colorful career as a native of Southeast, Ont., and at one time was an engineer of the Borough of Guildford, Surrey, Eng.

WIDELY TRAVELLED

During his residence in England Maj. Mason had many experiences as a traveler over the roads which came under his supervision and made his trips over them with a light heart.

His most thrilling moment, he once recalled, was once when he was bathing at Cowes, Isle of Wight, England, and the yacht "Princess of Wales" left. Queen Alexandra came by. He was able to have a chat with her.

Maj. Mason was a member of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Legion, No. 24, Veterans. Burial will be held under the auspices of the Legion.

No Elaborate Attention for Dutch Princess

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(CP)—The Netherlands royal baby business the story about Princess Juliana is that there isn't any story.

And that's the way the heralds to the throne of the Netherlands want it. It's nice for Princess Juliana, but it's tough on reporters.

There should be a baby in the nursery where the baby will live when it comes from the nursery. A reporter could describe the crib, the decorations, the little clothes all ready. But that's no more.

The little Netherlands girl won't have a bright and shiny nursery. It will sleep in its mother's room.

SIMPLE GARMENTS

There is no elaborate lavette either. The baby will wear simple garments made by Netherlands women in England. The same kind of garments that babies of Dutch soldiers and sailors and marines wear. When it gets a little bigger, Netherlands officials said, it will graduate into "handmade" clothes custom made by Princess Beatrix and Princess Irene.

The princess is very careful about her dress. It will be simple, but it will be Dutch.

There's not much story, either. In Ottawa city hospital where the confinement took place, except that a suite has been reserved for the princess, the baby will be exclusively a Netherlands baby.

It's little sisters, Princess Beatrix and Irene have no elaborate, expensive playthings.

Most of their favorite things were bought by Princess Juliana when she was in the five-and-ten-cent store. They are never allowed to have anything else.

Princess Juliana says she wants her children to be brought up exactly like ordinary, healthy children, and she wants them to be happy and rewarded when they're good.

Princess Beatrix and Princess Irene go to kindergarten with children who live in the same district. They get no special attention.

Nether will be the new princess.

WREN IS Lady First

And Sailor Second

Say Navy Officers

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(CP)—A Wren is a lady before she's in the dress, she conducts herself like a wren, rather than like a sailor. That's the decree set down by officials of Women's Royal Canadian Naval Service.

When a naval man goes into a building—church or mess—he takes off his hat, but when a Wren enters a building, she takes off her little tiara, on just as if she were a civilian.

The Wrens are pioneers in this particular back-to-femininity movement, and they believe in the dividends. Women of the services remove their hats.

Most of the navy officers like the Wrens because they are the feminine service. They are the Officer Doris Taylor. "Leaving on our hats is just an expression of our love," she said, too, that it is more like a civilian hat than those worn by other services.

Mrs. Alice Bracken

Recalls Days as Young Wife in West

WINNIPEG, Jan. 20.—(CP)—Mrs. Alice Bracken, president of the Progressive Conservative Party, leader, likes to recall the days of her home province to make her home in Ottawa as a married woman. Mrs. Bracken in 1900 her mother was skeptical about her young couple moving to the west.

"When I was sent west my mother thought I was going to the end of the earth," she said. "My mother wanted me to take up my career of my stock in London."

Since then Mrs. Bracken, formerly Alice Bracken, lived in Regina, Saskatchewan and Winnipeg. From the rank of lieutenant in the household, serving and cooking, she has taken an active part in women's affairs, social and club work since her husband became premier of Manitoba in 1922.

After Mr. Bracken's election here in December as leader of the Progressive Conservative Party, Mrs. Bracken is a member of the committee for the Canadian for Britain organization here and is a member of the board of the Victoria Order of Nurses and the advisory council of the Winnipeg Chapter.

Her sister is honorary president of the women's auxiliary to the R.C.N.V. a member of the Agriculture and Home Economics Faculty Club, the 190 Club, Winnipeg Women's Curling Club, and the 200 Club. Mr. Bracken's secretary is Mrs. M. J. Bracken.

In addition, Mrs. Bracken is honorary president of the Fort Garry Chapter, C.O.D., and a member of the member of the Quila Club and the Winnipeg Women's Club.

ERA OF WAIVED HAIR-DOS

Waved hairdos—bobs, curls, and the like—were the fashion of the 1920s. But now, with the coming of the 1930s, the fashion has changed. The new hairdos are simple, straight, and short. They are the "waived" hairdos. They are the hairdos of the 1930s.

War Nurses Are Dutiful And Heroic

OTTAWA, Jan. 20.—(CP)—They won't talk about themselves—but some of the most heroic work is being done by the Canadian nursing sisters in the Canadian army nursing sisters.

Little more than a year ago, nursing was considered a lowly, unimportant job. But now it is a noble profession. It is a profession of the future.

Canadian nursing sisters serve in South Africa, helping care for wounded soldiers from the burning sands of the north. During the worst months of the Serbian civil war, Canadian nursing sisters served in the front lines, helping care for the wounded.

Canadian nursing sisters are on duty in Newfoundland, too. They are the nursing sisters of the future.

NOTHING GLAMOROUS

There is nothing glamorous or exciting about the nursing service. It is a service of the future. It is a service of the future.

Nurses do not hunger for recognition or publicity. Miss Smellie said.

But they received plenty of publicity after the Battle of Britain. They were the nursing sisters of the future.

They were the nursing sisters of the future. They were the nursing sisters of the future.

Before Judging a Country Lightly One Must Know It, Prof. Cru SAYS

First Inspection for a Whole Unit

Defence Minister Inspects Reserve Brigade Group •

Tunisia to most Canadians is a flat, sandy foreign country somewhere between the Mediterranean and the Sahara Desert in North Africa. But Allied troops fighting there find the region has its mountains and muddy valleys just like many sections of Canada. Knocked out by the Allies on a road near Mateur, the German tank above has a backdrop panorama of rolling hills typical of northern Tunisia. In these same hills, British Bren gunners and riflemen are shown in action, left, atop one of the ridges west of Bizerte and Tunisia where our troops and tanks have engaged in see-saw battles with

Just an Old Nazi Custom

The fact that this American hospital train was clearly marked with the Red Cross symbol didn't keep Nazi planes in Tunisia from blasting it with bombs. U.S. soldiers examine twisted wreckage of cars after raid.

Russians Win Back Big Area in Offensive

In one month of counter-attack this winter the Russians have regained even more territory than they did in the initial period of their 1941-42 offensive. Map shows progress of Soviet drives begun in mid-December against Germans in Velikie Luki-Rzhev and Rostov-Stalingrad-Caucasus sectors. Note that Nazis made relatively no gains in north during 1942 and have lost nearly half of area seized in south.

Julie Bishop of the movies has hit upon the unique idea of decorating her bonnet with war stamps. She supports Olivia de Havilland in Warner's hilarious "Princess O'Rourke."

Named Advisor

Arthur D. Cobban of Toronto, who has been appointed associate financial advisor to the munitions and supply department at Ottawa. Mr. Cobban is vice-president of Wood, Gundy and Company, Limited.

Movie Miracle

You've never heard of Jennifer Jones, but she has been selected to play the much sought after leading role in "The Song of Bernadette," based on the famous miracle of Lourdes. The Tulsa, Okla., girl, whose real name is Phyllis Isley, is pictured in the nun's costume she will wear in the film.

Indian Chief

Ensign Thomas Oxendine, 20, full-blooded Cherokee Indian, will charge along an aerial warpath when he leaves the Naval Air Station at Jacksonville, Fla., to take his place with the fleet. His great-grandfather fought in the War Between the States and two uncles were in the last war.

Defence Minister Ralston stands at attention while taking the salute from members of the 33rd Reserve Brigade Group at Ottawa. It was the first time for a whole unit of the Reserve Army to be inspected when they marched past Col. Ralston at Ottawa last Wednesday night. Left to right are: Brigadier K. M. Perry, Maj. General B. W. Browne, director general of the Reserve Army; Colonel L. W. W. Slack, commander of the 33rd Reserve Brigade; Colonel Ralston; Brigadier F. Logie Armstrong, officer commanding M.D. 3, and Colonel J. F. G. Garneau, commandant Ottawa Area Command.

Looking extremely pleased with the splendid turnout, Defence Minister Ralston and Major General B. W. Browne glance at the men in battle dress. Standing to the right in battle dress is Colonel L. W. W. Slack, commander of the group.

Defence Minister Ralston listens with interest as Private Gerald Clarke, of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards, gives his views on Reserve Army life. Col. Ralston spent the greater part of the evening chatting with men of the ranks.

Looking Over the Situation

Saved by Shirt

Cadet at U.S. Navy pre-flight school in Iowa City, Ia., shows how pilots may use their shirts as life savers if forced down at sea. With sleeves and shirt-tail behind him to form pocket, cadet inflates air-tight shirt with lung power, top, then floats. Used in emergencies if regular equipment is lost, inflated shirt can keep swimmer afloat several days.

SO YOUR HUSBAND'S GONE TO WAR

by ETHEL GORHAM • whose husband is at war

CHAPTER 15
You nibble and snack for the first week or two after your husband goes to war. But soon you find you must eat for health, if not for fun and it's cheaper to plan regular meals at home than hope for the best outside. You may notice the deterioration, but a few years of drugging diet will not devastate things to your hair's skin, your figure. If you don't want your husband crushed by the sight of you when he returns you want to start eating for the future with an eye on the cost of living, because you can forget it.

If you have a child the best thing is to plan your meals around him so you find you are not cooking separately for each of you. Except for infant menus, doctors do not prescribe the same kind of foods for children as you ought to eat yourself if you would keep looking and feeling fit.

There are just certain simple basic things to remember about your child's diet and your own. In war or peace, the human system generally gets along most efficiently with a minimum of food. It can be called the "protective foods." If it makes you any happier, the High Principles of Nutrition claim these are full of vitamins. But they are full of other things, too, and no matter what else you eat, do so that at one year or another you get the following every day:

At least one serving of lean meat, fish or poultry; at least one of the leafy green vegetables or one of the so-called yellow variety; at least one of the other vegetables like potatoes, artichokes, or string beans; at least one egg; at least one pint of milk; at least one quart for any child under eighteen; one orange or grapefruit half or tomato juice or two raw tomatoes; some wholegrain bread; some butter and other fat.

The lean meats are roast beef, lamb, veal, chicken, and turkey. But bacon comes as fat, not as meat. And that frying destroys food values. You and your child should get at least one serving of liver a week, not necessarily the more expensive calves' liver. Beef less complicated and does a better job of preserving the contents. Rich in iron is the egg you must have every day. You have to rub the Old Lady to find an egg in full here and there's no prospect of shortage.

Milk is the dairyman's delight and they lay down the reasons for its necessity in no uncertain terms. They say it is a perfect food, the source of calcium phosphorus, and big-gum vitamins. Exaggerated milk being taken over for the troops, but all indications point to milk in abundance at one and the same time.

You can take your pint of milk each day in creamed soups, creamed soups, creamed milk, and creamed. Five ounces of liquid, old-fashioned "cheese" equals a quart of milk in food values. And pot cheese, or cottage cheese, appears on every pediatrician's menu to round out the child's milk diet.

The whole-grain breads are better for you than the white ones, although the bakers have tried to remove the opportunity from their white bread by "enriching" them. Ask for whole-grain cereals when you shop and get those that cook quickly.

You don't want to do all your saving on food alone. There are tricks of stringent economy, such as using dried beans, rice, and substitute for meat and fish; make a main dish of macaroni or rice with cheese sauce; dried fruits instead of fresh. But don't tighten your belt so tight you can't breathe. Here is a menu given by one of New York's most renowned dietitians for any normal child from one to six years of age. It is simple and easy to cook. The child's mid-day meal might be served to you at night. If you have to return from your job, pick up your child at a nursery where presumably he has had a dinner with approximately the same food as the dinner given here. It would be better for both of you to have the kind of supper Dr. X. outlines. You could then make the midday meal that you eat out your heavy one. A light supper would be easier to shop for, easier to prepare, and certainly more suitable than trying to manage a supper for the child and yourself on one and the same time. Here is the menu:

Breakfast—juice of one orange, half grapefruit or tomato, a slice of egg, two strips of bacon, two slices whole-grain bread, baked in butter, glass of milk, coffee with milk for you.

Supper—Serving of meat, fish, or eggs (if not at breakfast), liver once each week, kidneys, lung, sweetbreads three times, one leafy vegetable, one yellow vegetable, potatoes, macaroni, five cranberries, dessert of custard, ice cream, jam, or raw fruit, milk, dark bread and butter.

Supper—One egg (if not at other meals), cottage cheese, cereal or thick creamed soup, small salad with leaf lettuce and sliced tomato, fresh or stewed fruit, milk, dark bread and butter.

Because of the tin shortages you may find yourself buying more and more of the quick-frozen foods. They are easy to prepare, often much more delicious than the canned foods. Also you can get them in small quantities for your smaller family.

Look for dehydrated foods as another of the wartime economy. You can whip up a dinner in no time flat with these powdered foods. They come packaged in envelopes you can slip into your purse and when cooked not only taste like their originals, but have the same color and unaltered color.

There are over one hundred dehydrated foods available. Soups predominate, going all the way from soups that tell in the tins to good thick blackbean soups. There are egg powders that whip into an omelet with no trouble at all; good crystals that turn into lemon juice, brownish flakes that make delicious sauce. The vegetables in flakes turn out garden fresh when rehydrated, and the dried milk tastes as much like fresh as you could want.

CLOSED FOR SEASON

LITTLEBOURNE, Alta., Jan. 29.—(CP)—The Raymond factory closed yesterday after producing part of a bumper crop of beets grown in this area last year and ending the sugar beet run said next season. Alberta's other factory at Picard, B.C., completed operations last week. The 1942 production of 34,000 tons of beets from 27,000 acres set a new record for Alberta, exceeding the previous high yield of 23,000 tons in 1940.

KENORA, Ont., Jan. 29.—(CP)—Word was received here yesterday by friends of P. L. J. A. Sherrell, of the R.C.A.F., former editor of the Kenora Mirror, that he had been promoted squadron leader.

Four men killed a cougar in northeastern Oregon and the cougar's mate skinned one of the men for several miles.
